

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and system for selling insurance on-line, particularly where there is an affiliate involved in the transaction who may receive a fee. Available products are determined based on what products the affiliate may sell, what products the user can buy and what products meet the criteria specified by the user. In addition, the affiliate is credited with the user registration and sale and is allotted a fee or commission based on what is allowed by insurance regulations.